After taking the loyalty oath, yesterday afternoon, the new Harrison Memorial Library board lected Donald Craig, chairman; Horace Lyon, treasurer, and decided, none too cheerfully, to comply with the city council's wishes and have an audit of its books. "Spending money with nothing to show for it," protested Donald Craig.

Gov. Brown Promises To Support Senator Farr's

As a guest at a dinner last night in Monterey honoring Senator Fred Farr of Carmel, Governor Edmund G. Brown, speaking in praise of the Democratic State Senator who will run for re-election this November, emphasized Farr's "deep concern for one of the country's greatest scenic resources-the coastline traversed by your own Highway No. 1." "I am convinced, as he is, that this great natural asset must be protected from crude exploitation, and that this magnificent coastline must be preserved so far as possible in its natural state. If people want freeways, let them add 100 and proceed down 101.

"Your Senator has proposed that State, local agencies and interested private individuals join in a comprehensive study which would allow only such private development as will be compatible with the conservation of this great scenic resource. One outcome of such a study should be a new kind of scenic highway designed to integrate traffic movement with varied recreational activities.

"It is characteristic of Fred, who first called such a project to my attention, that he thinks of it as a pilot project which might serve as a model for the many other scenic routes in California whose priceless beauties we must preserve for future generations. I promise to support such a study.

"Fred's vision constantly extends beyond the immediate confines of his district. He has recently discussed with me a proposal for a tri-state scenic highway, extending from Canada to Mexico. This route would provide a magnificent tourist asset, joining the matchless coastal areas of our sister states in the northwest to the beautiful mountain and coastal country of California. This bold proposal matches that advanced for a similar international road through the ten states bordering the Mississippi River.

"In the near future I plan to bring together representatives of the Division of Highways, the Department of Natural Resources, the State Office of Planning, the Beaches and Parks Commission, the Economic Development Agency, and such other agencies as may be involved, to consider this excellent proposal. I shall then confer with the Governors of Washington and Oregon. At the appropriate time, I will ask Fred to represent me on an inter-state study of the feasibility of this imaginative project."

The Governor expressed his appreciation for Farr's support in eliminating cross-filing; praised his bill creating the state office of planning; mentioned his efforts in behalf of a bill to curb billboards' despoliation of scenic values of the ance agent and former Mayor of Carmel; Donald Craig, hold-over member, chairman of the foreign language department at Carmel High School, a former Carmel City Councilman, and city planning commission member.

Shot Through Head, Suicide Lives For Three Hours

William Swan, 60, died last evening three hours after the Carmel Police found him lying in the grass by Junipero Street near Second, shot through the head. County Coroner Christopher Hill Jr., stated that his death was a suicide. Apparently despondent over ill health. Mr. Swan had shot himself with a .45 calibre pistol.

At 5:05 o'clock yesterday evening Carmel Police received a call from Swan's wife, Georgina. She informed them she had found a suicide note written by her hus-

HIGH SCHOOL CHEM TEACHER INJURED IN CAR ACCIDENT

Carmel High School chemistry teacher, Richard Pritchard, 34, received major injuries in an accident on the Carmel Valley Road last night.

According to the California Highway Patrol report, Pritchard was traveling east on the Valley Road. Apparently he lost control of his car, which broadslid off the roadway and rolled over approximately four times. He was taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital in the Monterey ambulance following the accident which occurred at 11:25 o'clock, one and two-tenths miles east of Highway

We Must Buy Park Land Now Gov. Brown Says

Discussing beaches and park acquisition for recreational purposes, Governor Edmund G. Brown, in a press conference yesterday afternoon at the Old Capital Club in Monterey, said "We must buy now. There must be places for the people to go." More tidelands oil funds should be used for this purpose, he said, and to provide money for California's water program.

Alaskans Wintering Here Warn Against Parking Meters

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Manders of Anchorage, Alaska, are occupying a cottage in Carmel. They have lived in Anchorage for 20 years and before that made their home in Atherton.

Mr. Manders is an attorney. Twenty years ago when he went to Anchorage the city had eight attorneys; now there are 65. However, he maintains, the Anchorage area, with a population of 50-60,-000 persons, is still a promising and challenging field for young attorneys. Of Alaska's new statehood advantages, Mr. Manders is doubtful because of increased taxation. Appropriations have risen to within one million dollars of an hundred percent increase over the period immediately prior to statehood, he claims.

"Don't have parking meters in Carmel," Mr. Manders advises; "they have ruined downtown Anchorage. Citizens shop in outlying areas now," he warns, "and the down town merchants wonder what has happened."

Mrs. Manders, a decorator, is planning to study painting during her Carmel visit. She came here two months ago.

The Manders went to Alaska after their children were grown. "Because I had always wanted to go there," remarks Mr. Manders who has a distinguished-looking, full, close-cropped beard.

The Governor brought the news to the conference that just before leaving Sacramento to fly here he had learned from the secretary of the State Highway Commission that the bonding company would take over construction of the Carmel Hill Interchange.

The contractor, Houston Fred Stokes, in financial difficulties which presaged the intervention of the bonding company in any case, was killed in a private plane crash Tuesday in a flight to Los Angeles.

Brown stated that the Highway Commission had hired a design engineer to restore natural planting when the interchange is completed. The natural levels and contours of the land around the interchange lend themselves to restoration, Governor Brown said, and stated that trees and flowers would be used for landscaping the

The Governor defended the present non-political set-up of the State Highway Commission. Politics should not enter into control of the commission, he maintained. The system of staggered terms for Highway commissioners is good and choice of routes should be left to the commission and Highway Department.

Pressure would be terrific if the highway commission were a political body, he pointed out. He preferred the present set-up of the commission which consists of a group of topflight citizens including engineers and persons with appreciation of aesthetic values.

Kiwanis Latest To Join Fight To Save County Billboard Ordinance

Yesterday the Carmel Kiwanis Club passed a resolution unanimously which urges "the Planning Commission of the County of Monterey to sustain said ordinance (the county billboard ordinance) as it is presently enacted without change and without compromise."

The resolution will be presented at the January 26 meeting of the county planning commission in Salinas when the commission will hear the proposals of the Foster and Kleiser outdoor advertising company to modify the ordinance in such a way that 85 percent of the billboards they are required to remove by July 1 would be allowed to remain, and the way opened for them to put up numerous new ones.

Citizens in the Carmel area want no compromise. In addition to the Kiwanis club's action, this week Carmel Unincorporated and the Carmel Citizens Committee announced that they would send representatives to the January 26 meeting to urge no change in and firm enforcement of the billboard ordinance. Last week Mayor John Chitwood appointed Councilman Tom May to present the city's nocompromise sentiments, and Carmel Business Association announced they would send representatives for the same purpose.

The billboard ordinance, passed five years ago, permits billboards only in industrial and commercial areas. Non-conforming billboards, that is, those in existence throughout the county in unclassified, agriculture, and other non-commercial zones at the time the ordinance was passed, were given five years

KING CITY HOOP SQUADS AT CARMEL FRIDAY NIGHT

Carmel High's varsity basketball squad will face one of the tough obstacles on its way to the CCAL B-division basketball championship tomorrow night when the King City Mustangs invade the Padre pavilion for a triple-header. The junior-varsity clubs will square off in a 5:30 o'clock game with the lightweights taking over at 7:00 o'clock, and the varsity fray slated for an 8:30 tip-off.

King City's rangy quintet will provide the Padres with their toughest league competition so far this season and the winner of this one will be favored to take the title. The Mustangs were upset by Pacific Grove in a tight contest last Friday night but that game could have gone either way. In two previous league games, King City whipped Live Oak by a slim margin and ran roughshod over the hapless San Lorenzo Cougars.

Coach Dan Yurkovich has shaken up his starting five in the last two starts with Dave Fuller taking over one of the guard spots and Toby Edson moving into the starting center post. Fuller has turned in two come-through performances in recent games, pumping through the winning basket against Live Oak and sewing up the Hollister game with two free throws in the waning moments. Edson was high point man in the win over Hollister and his speed has helped the Padre running game to some easy baskets. Russ Wise, Chris Wilkin, and Mike Draper round out the Padre starting five for tomorrow night's fracas with the Mustangs. Coach Dick Lawitzke's jayvee squad, still smarting from a defeat administered by Robert Louis Stevenson, will be out to redeem the poor showing against RLS with a win over the Mustang reserves. The Padre junior-varsity was a bit overconfident against the Pebble Beach lads and paid the penalty which always goes with taking an opponent lightly. Coach Dick will send Jim Brown, Paul Rice, Frank Mayo, Bob Little, and Scott Forbes as an opening lineup against the Mustang jayvees.

Carmel's lightweight quintet, jubilant after breaking into the win column at the expense of the Hollister Hayseeds, should run the win streak to two straight against the winless Ponies. The King City lights have just barely reached the double figures in most of their games and should find the Little Padres a little too tough. Coach Hadley Hicks figures to open the action with Jim Miles, Pete DePetra, Steve Fairfield, Teddy Leidig and Bob Wells.

PADRE CAGERS TRIM LIVE OAK AND HOLLISTER

Forced to come from behind in both games, Carmel High's varsity basketball squad rallied to defeat Live Oak, 44 to 41, last Friday night at the Acorn gym and pulled another comeback Tuesday night to clip the Hollister quintet, 47 to 43. Hero of the action in both games was scrappy little guard, Dave Fuller, who pushed through the deciding points to ice the victories. The Live Oak fracas was a league affair and the win puts the Padres on top the CCAL B-division with a one-game bulge over King City, Gonzales, and Pacific Grove. The Hollister game was a practice affair and has no effect on the league standings since the Haybalers have bolted to the Aleague in basketball.

With Toby Edson showing the way in the scoring department (13 points) and Chris Wilkin taking care of all stray rebounds, the Padres overcame a rash of sloppy passing to nip the Haybalers in the last minute of the game. Dehind 43 to 42, with less than a minute to play, Mike Draper, broke out of the pack to push through a jumper from the edge of the key to give the Padres a precarious one-point bulge. While attempting to stall out the remaining seconds, Dave Fuller was fouled and cashed in on both chances to put the Red and Gray out of reach. Edson, Chris Wilkin, and Draper led the Jim Miles (15 points) led the Carmel lightweights to their first win of the season as the Little Padres surprised an overconfident Hollister aggregation, 35 to 24. The Hayseeds were so confident of victory that they started Tuesday night's action with their third string performers who were blanked, 10-0, during the first quarter. Buoyed up by being ahead for the first time this season and enjoying the action, the Little Padres weren't about to give up their lead and actually increased the margin to 35-24 at the expense of the Hollister first string.

The Carmel lights were no match for the big Live Oak limiteds who ran to a 51-25 win over Coach Hick's charges. Jeff Mullins, a rugged senior lightweight, paced the Little Acorns with 16 points while Frank Bucher and Pete DePetra each notched six markers to lead the Carmel scorers.

Carmel's junior - varsity surged to a 35-17 win over the Live Oak jayvees as Bob Little and Scott Forbes each chipped in with 12 points. However, the Carmel squad ran into unexpected opposition from the scrappy Robert Louis Stevenson crew and was rudely jolted, 30 to 25. With pivotman Bagby showing the way, RLS broke away from a 10-10 halftime deadlock and kept in front the rest of the way. Jim Brown, Bob Little, and Frank Mayo each hit 7 points for the Padre reserves but the team as a whole was plagued with a cold shooting game.

One hundred and fourteen residences were remodelled; value $220,396.00. Twenty-six commercial buildings were improved; value $93,820.00. One public building was remodelled with a value of $450.

TOASTMASTERS OFFER AID IN KEEPING NEW RESOLUTIONS

A campaign to help men keep their New Year's resolutions was announced last week by Clem Trapkus, Area Governor of the Toastmaster clubs.

"If a man has resolved to improve himself during the coming year," Trapkus said, "we can help him. Toastmasters training is one of the easiest and most effective self-improvement methods ever developed."

The Toastmasters club offers training in public speaking and parliamentary procedure, Trapkus pointed out. It also helps men develop executive skills. In the past 35 years, he said, more than a half-million men have benefited from Toastmasters membership, including governors, congressmen, mayors, business and industrial leaders, and many other public figures.

Trapkus said the Carmel and the Monterey Toastmasters clubs are currently accepting a limited number of new members. To permit all members to participate in each meeting, the by-laws of Toastmasters International, he said, limit clubs to 40 active members. Both clubs meet on Wednesday evenings, Monterey convenes at the USO club and the Carmel club dines at the Cypress West Hotel.

A candidate for Republican State Senator from Monterey County to oppose Senator Fred Farr of Carmel in the 1960 election was selected at a Republican Committee meeting Tuesday night.

The committee decided that their candidate shall announce himself to the press, in his own good time.

Louis C. Moore heads the candidate selection committee, Frank Shropshire, Pacific Grove, is vice chairman. The committee, composed of representatives from various parts of the county includes the following members from the Carmel area: Mrs. Doris Ashley, Major General E. J. Later, he came into her shop and presented the following letter:

An anachronism, surely; but charming—an oasis in the desert of civilization.

rows of trees in military formation up and down our streets. He hasprotested to the council several times against the street department's policy of planting new pines seven feet from the property line. Ten years ago when Donald Craig was on the city council, he urged "staggered" planting of new pines and S-curve sidewalk line wherever possible.

On tree tours during the past year, we have heard the city council suggest to Street Superintendent William Askew that when he plants a new pine to replace one that is to be removed he avoid the 7-foot formula.

"He goes right on planting them seven feet from the property line," Whitaker said to us yesterday. "It's discouraging."

It's safe to say that Whitaker's discouragement is transitory. The effect of Whitaker's persistence was demonstrated early this month. A year ago he complained to the city council about the use of the ravine north of town as a dump of street department materials and refuse. The property was a gift to the city with deed restrictions that it was to be used as a natural park. When Whitaker's repeated protests before the city council appeared to be having no effect, 50 citizens in the neighborhood of the ravine signed a petition asking that the street department "cease and desist," and threatening legal action. The city could lose the property because of violation of the deed restriction, Tom Perry, attorney for the petitioners, pointed out.

City Attorney John Morse advised the council that this was so; and the council told the street department to remove its stuff. This was last fall.

Nothing happened.

From time to time during December Francis Whitaker went up to look at the dump. From time at the dump. Then on January 5 both Francis and Tom went to look at the dump, together.

On January 6 the entire street department were all over the ravine like ants; a bulldozer was chugging away. By nightfall the ravine was beginning to resemble the natural park of the deed restriction.

"How did they know that Tom and I had decided to proceed in court while we were standing there, looking?" Whitaker wond-

"I went up there and looked, but nothing happened; Tom went to look and nothing happened. But the day after we go to look together, look what happens!

"It just goes to show what determined citizens' pressure can accomplish."

No. Mr. Whitaker is not discouraged.

The community is concerned over reports that the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board is considering cutting down the ratio of population to number of liquor licenses. The present ratio is 1 to 1000 per population within the county.

Cecil Haskell Phone FR 2-2105 P. O. Box 1056, Carmel following letter to the ABC board:

"The City Council has taken notice of recent newspaper reports to the effect that the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board is considering decreasing the present ratio standard for liquor licenses to population within counties.

"As you are of course well aware Carmel-by-the-Sea, during the years, steadfastly opposed activities, ministerial or otherwise, having consequences which would invite an expansion of liquor industry activities in this City, not from any opposition to the industry per se but simply because the community already contends with an imbalance in this business and connot agree that a further aggravation will serve the public welfare, locally or even generally.

"It is appreciated that your honorable Board is constrained to treat with this and related matters on a statewide basis; but it would be difficult to concede the premise that particular harm must necessarily be the accepted consequence of providing for the general good. Local conditions such as ours are not without their parallels elsewhere and it is to be hoped that your board will duly appreciate this fact in your deliberations."

Carmel Citizens Committee, after debate and 40 minutes' discussion from the floor Monday night unanimously approved the resolution: "There is no reason for the Carmel City Council to change its decision in the original case; the application should be denied."

About 100 were in attendance, including four city councilmen.

The application concerns Leslie Fenton's second effort to get approval for a gas station on a parking facility in the block bounded by Ocean, Junipero, Seventh and Mission Streets.

The plans will be before the planning commission January 27. If the commission finds that the gas station is an "accessory use," it will be permissible, though gas stations are prohibited by ordinance except in the north-east C-2 part of town. Existing gas stations, south of Ocean, were there before the 1942 zoning ordinance and are "non-conforming."

Last spring, presented with another set of Fenton plans, the planning commission decided that the gas station was an accessory use, and were over-ruled by the council in an appeal hearing.

At Monday night's meeting, Lewis Fenton spoke for the pumps; Dale Leidig, against. In the 40 minutes discussion from the floor, no one spoke in favor of the gas station.

When Admiral Fisher, in cutting off the discussion, asked if there were anyone who wished to speak for the affirmative, he was greeted with profound silence.

(Continued from Page One) and put out an all-points bulletin. At approximately 6:00 o'clock a telephone call from an unidentified person informed police that a person was lying in the grass on the west side of Junipero Street South of Second Avenue.

Police officers found Swan at this location, shot through the head, but still alive. He was taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital in the Red Cross ambulance operated by the fire department.

At 9:11 o'clock last night, Coroner Hill informed Carmel Police that Swan had died.

After Two Years, A New Board Accepts Visitors' Advice

After two years, the school board has finally agreed to allow faculty participation in guidance and curriculum at the high school.

At their meeting Monday night the board approved the report of the "implementation committee."

Two years ago the board invited a survey of Carmel High School operation by a committee of visiting educators. Such surveys, sponsored by the California Association of Secondary School Administrators (CASSA) were going on all over the state, and the board decided to have one too, expecting nothing but praise.

Carmel High School got praise from the visitors, also some recommendations, the most important of which was that guidance and curricular responsibilities be shared by the administrators with the teachers, that a guidance and curriculum committee be set up. Also, that an implementation committee of grazens, educators, and students e organized to determine how many of the visitors' recommendations should be carried out.

The board wasn't pleased and let matters slide.

In a meeting last spring involving a row over the resignation of a splendid biology teacher, a teacher and a citizen brought up the survey and wanted to know why the implementation committee had never been appointed and put to work. So the board appointed an implementation committee, and the latter completed their report three months ago, recommending the curriculum and guidance committee be instituted, acknowledging, however, that some progress had been made at the high school in the meanwhile in bringing the teachers into the guidance work.

Last month the board found the implementation committee report on its agenda. Resignations and elections had changed the personnel of the school board to such an extent that the survey and implementation committee work was news to most of them. But they have been studying the reports and Monday night, after an hour's work analyzing the implementation committee's report pe agraph by paragraph, they approved it; instructed High School Principal Warren Edwards to set up the curriculum and guidance committees, and report back on how they work, especially the guidance committee structure.

They also decided to continue the implementation committee which was automatically dissolved with the completion of its report, but they hadn't decided what to call it, because they had not clearly defined what its duties were to

Lillian Bos Ross

Lillian Bos Ross, Big Sur novelist, died on Sunday in a San Jose hospital after a long illness. Previous to her illness she was working on a book to complete a trilogy about the Big Sur country. The published volumes of this series are The Stranger and Blaze Allen. She also published numerous magazine articles and short stories. For the past 20 years Mrs. Ross had lived on Partington Ridge. She was known to her friends as Shannagolden.

Mrs. Ross was born in Minnesota 69 years ago. Her childhood was spent on an isolated ranch in the State of Washington. For many years she was a book buyer for department stores.

In 1924, she and her husband, sculptor Harrydick Ross, discovered the Big Sur country on a walking trip from San Luis Obispo to Monterey. They returned to live for a time in 1930, and later built one of the first homes on Partington Ridge above the coast 12 miles below Big Sur.

Mrs. Ross became interested in the early settlers of the downcoast region and her novels are fictionalized histories of the area and its people.

She is survived by her husband. She had no close relatives.

Private funeral services were held in San Jose on Monday.

AT THE MIDNIGHT OF WINTER

Everything on this island of blood And grass bends hopefully with life Toward the green, upswinging road Of another improbable year. And the cold dawn falls like a threat. For this morning The sun will not be made to order, Nor will it soothe our uncomplaining Weariness and fit out limbs to sleep. Now it is the rain Whose singular, brief and suddenly Falling intricacy simplifies The roots of our vigil. With a million blasphemies cancelled. Washed clean a thousand defeats, our Hands—to be real and imperishable— Need hold no question up to the light. And so, thinking with pleasure of the sun, Which is never invisible—long stemmed Water shaped rose of uncut fire in a bowl Of endless sky—I wrap my aching Head in a bandage of silence and go Quietly soft Walking into the garden of sweetness Crowned with purple iris on a throne Of wine, where delicately And with a great many gestures, hair, hands Skirts and eyebrows, a lovely young Miracle speaks to the trees.

-KENNETH DOBEL

THE UNWELCOMED

There came a curlew skirling up the shore. I watched him lonely step this alien sand, for native gulls fed on, as if they bore no kinship to the stranger in their land.

What coastbound ship, I wondered, sheltered him till breezes fragrant of our similar soil stirred hope of home, though hope of home were dim to con him over breakers' rush and roil?

I thought, how smug our living, gulls or men, how barriers of the accustomed wall us round when we ignore truth lifting past our ken, to peck familiar flotsam from the ground.

Wind gusted colder, and the curlew flapped down seaward whorls of foam, rejected, slow.

I heard hope keening where the long tide lapped, I knew truth homing where the sun leaned low.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg
The new biography of Gertrude

Stein is called The Third Rose, which is natural enough. It was written by John Brinnin, and he once again proves the truth of the statement of the person who said that it's so much easier to read about Stein than to read Stein.

A group of professional historians examined the twenty great decisions of World War II and their conclusions were edited and gathered into a book by the Office of Military History of the United States Department of the Army. The book is called Command Decisions. Such a book is especially interesting to students of military history, of course, but it is interesting also to persons whose lives may have been directly influenced by these decisions.

What roads lead a man to become a referee in the world of boxing, and what does a referee think about? All the answers are told in the book, Third Man in the Ring, by Ruby Goldstein.

A collection of short stories by Colette has been published under the title, The Tender Shoot, and a collection of essays by Bishop Merlin Guilfoyle is out under the title, California, State of Grace. A third collection this week is one of the Best Stories of Charles Dickens.

Lyrics on Several Occasions is by Ira Gershwin, and in the book he has grouped many of the lyrics he has written under subject headings and then discussed them from that standpoint. The hard thing is to read the lyrics without mentally adding the music and becoming a musician in spite of yourself.

A man who writes of the pleasures of growing old is Walter Allen, and his new novel, Three Score and Ten, is written with understanding and grace. It is the life of Billy Ashted, told by himself, at the age of 76.

Depth Psychology and Modern Man by Ira Progoff is said to conceive of man in the spirit of science. The subtitle of the book is A New View of the Magnitude of Human Personality, Its Dimensoins and Resources. There you have it.

The return to fashion of the chafing dish has impelled one publisher to put out a book entitled, Chafing-Dish Specialties by Nedda Anders. Have you an attic which harbors a chafing dish?

Just in case you have the new year forgetfuls, we want to remind you that we issue a card which entitles the user to borrow county books from our library. There are approximately 8,000 books on deposit here which are the property of the Monterey County Library and may be borrowed free by any resident of the county. The thing is that you really need to use the card catalog to locate these books. All county books are cataloged on salmoncolor cards. The card color tells the tale.

Waiting For Godot Opens Tonight At The Studio Theatre

Waiting for Godot, Samuel Beckett's tragi-comedy, will open tonight at Carmel's Studio Theatre for a limited run of eight performances. Richard Bailey, who directed the premiere Peninsula production of Godot two years ago, is reviving the play.

Major roles in the production will, for the most part, feature the original cast who created the roles two seasons ago, Russ Eddy, as Estragon, a Chaplinesque character filled with pity and humor; Ron Bostwick as Vladimir, or Didi, the other half of the duo which is "waiting for Godot." The third original cast member is David Walton, who will appear as Lucky. Pozzo, will be portrayed by Richard Bailey, who assumes the double role of actor-director in the production. Completing the cast is Dan Matterson as The Boy.

Waiting for Godot, which came to America as a much-argued example of postwar French theatre, has become one of the classics of theatre. More than any other single work, Godot has been responsible for major innovations in dramatic style during the past few years.

Godot will be presented for two weekends only, Thursday through Sunday, beginning January 14 and closing January 24.

HUBBARD TO ADDRESS H. S. STUDY GROUP

Edwin Hubbard of the Monterey Peninsula Safety Council will address the Carmel High School Study Group on January 21 when it meets in Principal Warren Edward's office at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

Driving responsibilities of teenagers and their parents will be discussed. Driver education teachers Allen Aldwell and Dick Lawitzke, and vice-principal Dorothy Wright will be there for help on resource material. All interested parents of high school students will be welcome.

Virginia Breen

Mrs. Virginia Mas Breen of San Francisco, 33 years old, died unexpectedly on January 5 in Oroville. Prior to her recent parriage to Roland J. Breen, she lived in Carmel.

Mrs. Breen was born on October was the daughter of Mrs. M. Eleanor Shephard of Carmel and the Survivors, in addition to her mother and husband, are two children by a former marriage, Ronald and Eleanor Mae Bennett of Carmel; a brother, Andrew J. Shephard of Santa Rosa; and her grandfather, Andrew Jacobson of Alexandria, Minnesota.

Private funeral services were held in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea on January 8, with Dr. Carleton Whitehead of the Church of Religious Science officiating.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt will give her impressions of Russia and its people Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Armory at Monterey Peninsula College. Her lecture will be based on a visit to Russia and Asia in 1957.

Mrs. Roosevelt's appearance inaugurates the college's 1960 lecture series. Clement Atlee, John Mason Brown and Padraic Colum will speak during February, and anthropologist Margaret Mead in April.

These lectures are offered to the public without charge.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

The Monterey Peninsula Concert Association presented for this season's third event at the Pacific Grove High School, the Chinese bass-baritone Yi-Kwei-Sze. It was an extraordinary recital by an Oriental who has mastered the music of the greatest Occidental composers. Arriving in America in 1947, he is now an American citizen and has already toured the world. Gifted with a sonorous voice and deep musical perception, he sang a program of Handel, Mozart, Brahms, Schubert, Moussorgsky, Tschaikowsky, Viveneman and a final group of moderns, besides several added numbers for encores, with not only good diction and fine phrasing, but with intense emotional and dramatic feeling that held his audience almost breathless. Seldom has the Handel Honor and Arms from Samson had so fluent a performance, and the two opera arias from Mozart's Abduction from Seraglio and Marriage of Figaro immediately stamped his operatic facility.

In the drama of Schubert's Wanderer and The Erlking, sung in excellent German and with intensity of emotion, full dramatic pathos was portrayed. The tonal control of the singer found pianissimo and fortissimo with equal ease. Two Chinese Folk songs by Teherepnin (with their tinkling settings) seemed like bright-colored toys in contrast to the stature of the rest of the program. In New York I had heard Chaliapin's unforgettable performance of The Volga Boat Song. Ki-Wwei-Sze gave it among the extra numbers with such skill that its modulation was even more subtle than the concept of the great Russian basso. John Challener at the piano supported the singer with equal musical and dramatic understanding. It was an exceptionally inspiring performance that earned the demonstrative recalls of the audience.

with the San Francisco Orchestra he so long conducted formerly. The San Francisco Symphony Association also announces two performances in February by the Moscow State Symphony Orchestra brought over by the intrepid impresario Saul Hurok, which will take place on Saturday and Sunday, February 20 and 21, with works by Prokofieff, Tschaikowsky and Rachmanninoff, conducted by Kohstantin, the regular conductor of the Moscow organization.

Rehearsals have again started this week for our own Monterey Symphony Association's third concert of the season to be given under Bernard Murray in March.

Local composers are beginning to get together for confabs, called this week by Gilbert Boyer, who already has used some of their work in the Chamber Music Con-

Public Invited To Meeting Tonight On Community Theatre

By Frederick Rider

The first meeting of a proposed Community Theatre Guild will take place this evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Golden Bough Circle Theatre. The meeting has been called by the Board of Directors of the Carmel Playhouse, which owns and operates the Golden Bough, in an effort to impress the community with the fact that the theatre belongs to Carmel in all but the technical sense. The board is extending an invitation to everyone on the Peninsula who has good theatre at heart to take part in the activities of the Circle Theatre at all levels from the planning of social functions to the production of plays.

Persons attending this evening's meeting will be presented with an outline of a community theatre organization similar to hundreds which are now operating successfully throughout the nation. It is expected that the meeting itself will bring to light modifications of the plan which would make it applicable to Carmel in particular and to the Circle Theatre. Membership may include current subscribers to the theatre's subscription season, the stockholders who have already invested in the theatre as a community service, and any and all persons who volunteer to work on one of the organization's standing committees. It is hoped that committees will be formed to cover every phase of the theatre's activities, incuding public relations, membership, finance. theatre parties and ticket sales, play production, play selection, special events and hospitality, building and grounds, and a theatre school

Since it was erected in 1952 with funds supplied by about 400 local shareholders, the Golden Bough has been operated by a minimum professional staff. The intention of its founders that it should be a community theatre has not in their opinion been realized. To better serve the community, the theatre needs the support not only of actors and audiences, but of persons from the business, professional, social, civic, artistic, military, and educational spheres as well. It is hoped that such a coalition of groups will take full advantage of the excellent theatre facilities and the professional staff which the Golden Bough has put at their disposal. If tonight's meeting indicates that they can, Carmel may at last have a theatre that is as much of a public asset as the symphonies, art galleries, and theatres that form the cultural backbone of countless other cities.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The divine source of all existence will be brought out at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon on the subject of "Life" is the Golden Text from Psalms (42:8): "The Lord will command his lovingkindness in the daytime, and in the night his song shall be with me, and my prayer unto the God of my life."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read the following: "Because Life is God, Life must be eternal, self-existent. Life is the everlasting I AM, the Being who was and is and shall be, whom nothing can erase" (289:32).

Scriptural passages will include the following Psalms: "The glory of the Lord shall endure for ever: the Lord shall rejoice in his works . . . I will sing unto the Lord as long as I live: I will sing praise to my God while I have my being" (104:31, 33).

We Must Purchase Park Land Now Gov. Brown Says

spect to highway department construction should be heeded, Governor Brown said. He warned, however, "Sometimes a loud and vociferous minority can impede progress."

The highway commission and state department of highways should consider aesthetic and property values, he continued, and said that a planner will be added to the highway department staff at his demand. This will be a person "thinking in beauty," the Governor added.

He also thought that a topflight architect working with the highway commission in an advisory capacity "would be an excellent idea."

Senator Fred Farr's suggestion for establishment of scenic highways in the state was "a great idea" the Governor remarked, but said that scenic highway legislation would not be introduced at the coming special session of the legisature. Instead a study would be made on a state program for scenic highways, and with this foundation by 1961 the state could "move ahead."

"I favor the national parkway," Governor Brown said emphatically. He was referring to the plan to add Highway 1 in Monterey County to sections of the coast road in San Mateo and Santa Cruz Counties to form a national parkway in California.

"I am going to confer with the Governors of Washington and Oregon and ask them to support a national parkway extending along the entire Pacific Coast," Governor Brown disclosed.

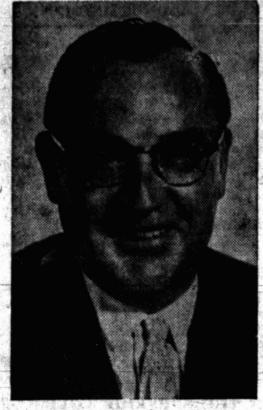

He would have to study national parkway plans for California and make sure there would be no interference with private property before the parkway was established, however, he added.

Discussing the national political scene, Governor Brown said President Eisenhower's recent trip abroad had helped the Republican Party, but the lag behind Russia in scientific knowledge and high interest rates would not help the Republicans in the coming election.

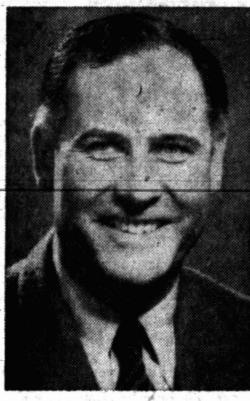

He stated that high interest rates created difficulty in governmental borrowing. Money for school bonds in California was hard to find as people preferred to invest money elsewhere.

Of the 1960 presidential candidates, Governor Brown remarked that he did not know whether Senator John F. Kennedy would move into California. After attending a Governor's conference in the East next week he might know more about this, though.

Governor Brown thought that Vice President Nixon would not have Labor support in the 1960 election because of his anti-labor actions previous to the steel strike. Of the latter he remarked that Nixon "did a good thing and had time to do it." He felt that Nixon's actions in this respect "brought prestige to his office."

Governor Brown was definite in declaring that he would see that California was redistricted "as fairly and squarely as possible." He thought the lines created for election districts by the 1951 legislature "immoral." Redistricting lines would be "good geographically" and he would veto any Reapportionment Bill he thought unfair, he said. The Democrats would definitely reapportion the State, he concluded.

Kiwanis Latest To Join Fight To Save County Billboard Ordinance

(Continued from Page One) to amortize the investment of their owners. The five year period expires July 1. Last month the Foster and Kleiser outdoor advertising company proposed extensive changes in the ordinance, and the county planning commission appointed a committee to study the proposals and report on January 26.

The Carmel delegation is prepared to oppose any recommendation of compromise on the part of this committee.

The Kiwanis Club Resolution:
RESOLUTION SUPPORTING RETENTION OF COUNTY BILLBOARD CONTROLS

WHEREAS, County Ordinance No. 911, Sec. 34A was enacted to preserve the invaluable scenic assets of Monterey County.

AND WHEREAS said enactment was not arbitrary but designed to afford fair treatment as indicated by its permission for the continued display of billboards in commercially zoned areas:

AND WHEREAS the enactment was preceded by numerous and unbiased hearings at which enthusiastic support for the purposes and instruments of the Ordinance were expressed particularly by those with active commercial interests;

AND WHEREAS said Ordinance has now been in effect for nearly five years during which time it has given ample evidence that neither inequalities nor unreasonable restraint characterized its provisions;

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RE-SOLVED that the Carmel Kiwanis Club does unanimously urge the Planning Commission of the County of Monterey to sustain said Ordinance as it is presently enacted without change and without compromise and with the avowed purpose of achieving a further enhancement of our invaluable natural assets through the operation of its provisions.

Four Fire Calls, Little Damage

Carmel Fire Department had one call Monday and three yesterday. At 9:15 o'clock in the morning it got too hot, too quickly at the Peninsula Community Hospital, setting off the automatic fire alarm in the Carmel Fire House. Firemen responded on one truck, according to the fire protection agreement made with the hospital which is outside the city limits. When the hospital temperature climbs a certain number of degrees in so many seconds the automatic alarm goes off.

At 11:35 o'clock yesterday morning three trucks and firemen answered an alarm and found a burned out washing machine at the home of Mrs. David R. Bennett. Damage was confined to the motor, but there was smoke.

The third call after midnight came from a home in Carmel Woods occupied by four school teachers. As the house was outside the city limits, Carmel firemen could not respond.

Fire Chief Robert Smith urges residents of outlying areas to call the State Division of Forestry Carmel Hill Fire Station rather than the Carmel Fire Department in such instances. Precious firefighting time is lost by calls to the Carmel department, he warns.

The Carmel Woods fire was in a house on San Juan Road north of Pescadero Lane. Occupants of the house were Louise Huebsch, Orlene Rosengren, Shirley Scarlett and Joan Williams.

Three trucks from the Carmel Hill Station contained the blaze to the living room, kitchen and one bedroom of the three-bedroom house owned by W. E. Gallwey of San Francisco. Cause of the fire is thought to be a faulty floor heater.

Earlier in the week all the city fire fighting equipment and 30 volunteers answered a call from the Pine Inn which proved to be hot wiring in the motor which operates the fan for the ventilating system. About $30 damage and smell of scorched wiring in the dining room.
